Wheat, Old Corn, and Maryland Tobacco,

PURCHASED BY

Oct 4 LAWRASON & FOWLE.

Mr. Editor,

KNOWING that there is a number of the most worthless of society, who make it a business to spread evil reports respecting the solvency of banks in the different parts of the United States, for the purpose of depreciating and purchasing their paper. I feel it is my duty to give a list of the Banks of the District of Columbia, that it may be made known to all persons in every part of the Union, that the said Banks do pay specie for their notes, on demand, and that they are justly entitled to the highest credit and standing, and that they are opposed to a suspension of specie payments, and will be the last in the country that will agree to such a measure. This communication is made to prevent imposition, and to inform all persons who may have the paper of those banks, in any part of the Union, that they may hold it as so much specie. Persons emigrating and travelling north, south or west, would do well by taking the notes of those banks, as they will always find them equal to specie, and often to command a premium of 5 to 10 per cent, for remittances to Baltimore, Philadelphia & New-York. To my numerous acquaintances (trading men,) and the community, I pledge myself for the foregoing.

The following are the banks of this district that pay specie for their notes on demand, viz:

The Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown,
Central Bank of Georgetown & Washington,
Union Bank of Georgetown.
Bank of Columbia,
Bank of the Metropolis,
Patriotic Bank of Washington,
Bank of Washington,
Bank of Alexandria,
Union Bank of Alexandria,
Farmers' Bank of Alexandria,
Bank of Potomac,
Branch Bank of the United States at Washington.

I hold myself responsible for the foregoing declaration to the public. Done at my Exchange Banking House, Bridge-street, Georgetown, this 26th day of May. 1819.

SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1819.

From the Hartford Mercury.

DULL TIMES INDEED!—NO NEWS.

Nothing from Enrope? nothing from S. America? is there nothing new? Where in the world is Bonaparte?—Are questions which we hear every day, and to which no satisfactory answer can be given; for to be satisfactory, tales of blood, marvellous and full of glory must be related. Not that men delight in these things—No! they would sigh over such barbarities; but for all that something is wanting to fill up the mighty void made by the peace of nations in the breast of curiosity.

Now to those who are disposed to laugh at the follies of mankind, it must be amusing to witness this unbounded desire to be made acquainted with every thing that passes, no matter whether of consequence or not; and if any in degree tinctured with the marvellous, so much the better. The eagerness, however innocent in origin (and we believe it mostly springs from worthy motives) is productive of much uneasiness, and neglect of more important concerns. To say that such curiosity is laudible of itself, would be folly—it is rather lamentable—because while it may prevent good principles, it does promote evil practices. It is not confinable—it is contagious in the extreme; and as it proceeds it does not, like the sound of the bell, die away in distance, but gathers as it goes a bitter compound of evils. Curiosity is never without credulity—and he who is anxious to know every thing, will most generally believe every thing. No matter how improbable or how unauthenticated—a story once told with a sober face becomes current, passes readily from hand to hand, like a bank note, until it is found to be counterfeit and laid aside, or is literally worn out and gone. To credulous persons improbability is pleasing; the marvellous delightful; and even things that are impossible are more frequently believed, than a story unlikely to be true is discredited. Hence among mankind, accounts of disasters, dangers, wonders, miraculous conversation, sea-serpents, salamanders, and all the et ceteras of the marvellous, are more thankfully received than sober deleniations of the beauties and realities of principles and things.

Instead of being so very anxious for news, so hungry after great events among nations—if men would turn their thoughts upon their own condition and that of this great country, they would behold in the magnificent spectacle enough to repay whole years of political starvation. For a moment take a retrospect.

To him who loves his country, and is proud of her advancement in strength and glory, a brighter prospect than the present never yet presented itself. To him who seeks more the future welfare of the human family, than the transitory splendors of earth, a fair prospect is presented in the extended empire of toleration, and the unrestricted progress of light and learning. Truth, about which so much has been said, so many contests have arisen, yet which remains the same eternal and unalterable—is unchecked in our country either by the curse of political censorship or the restriction of eccclesiastical tyranny. And the period may be said to have arrived when mankind look for libeberty and rational religion as a common boon, although in some benighted corners of the world the power of despotism has cut off the hope of freedom, and destroyed the capacity for enjoying it. As a nation we just begin to feel ourselves independent; not only so, but a majority of the people begin to set themselves about establishing their independence. For years we have hung, like baby children, around the skirts of our English parents, till the artful foreigner has grown proud of his cunning, and boastful that he has duped in trade whom he could not overpower in battle. The fashionables of America took more pride in wearing the refuse of England, than the best of our manufactures. But the tide now seems to be turning; people are awakened to their interests; and the glorious era of improvement seems to be bursting upon us.

While reflecting upon the magnificent destiny of our country; her rapid increase in internal power and wealth; all tho'ts of the petty broils of other nations are forgotten, and we feel less anxious about them in proportion as they recede from the pale of liberty, although we cannot but pity the condition of those who have no rights to fight for or enjoy.

We have the pleasure of presenting to our readers another sterling essay on the subject of Domestic Economy from the pen of a New-York writer, under the signature of "Howard." The favorable manner in which a number of our readers have expressed themselves relative to the productions of that able writer, induce us to recommend them to the attention of such as have not heretofore noticed them. The perusal of essays like these, are calculated to render more easy the practice of that domestic economy which with few exceptions indeed, the present situation of the times renders absolutely necessary to be adopted by all classes. Balt. American.

From the National Advocate.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

I don't subscribe to all the New-York papers, but I read them at a Coffee House, where, for one shilling, I get a cup of strong and refreshing coffee, and have an opportunity of pursuing my old habit of studying characters at the same time. A few days ago, I amused myself with counting the marriages in my friend John Lang's Gazette, and also the paper published by little Mr. Butler—but I really was shocked to see such falling off. It appeared to me, that in a community so extensive as ours, there is one third less marriages than is necessary to maintain a fair equilibrium of population. Why don't people marry?—Why are there so many antiquated damsels and superannuated bachelors? Aye, thinks I, there's the question—but it can be solved. The errors of education, and the extravagance of fashion, for which young ladies are celebrated, frighten the young men from making advances—and the follies and personal expences of young men, render them insensible to all the joys and comforts of matrimony; faults thus on both sides, have a tendency to keep them separated, till young ladies become old, and old bachelors marry to get nurses. Why not adopt new systems, and set on foot radical reform at once? I would begin with children at a very early age, and accustom them to simple and nutricious fare, very plain dress, and hardy amusements; the girls should be stirring and active, familiarized at an early period with domestic concerns, quick and expert at their needle—their leisure hours should be devoted to their books—they should read judiciously and write frequently, for writing well is an elegant accomplishment; if I could afford it, a little music and dancing should also be acquired, but they should not go into company at an early age. I see with regret, mothers dragging their daughters of twelve and thirteen years to parties and balls, under an erroneous impression that it gives them an air of ease and confidence;—may be it does;—it may give them too much confidence—they acquire an early taste or pleasure and amusements—if they are pretty, be sure of it some coxcomb will whisper his flattery in their tender ears, and little miss will be so accustomed to bear these fine things, that she will neglect indispensable improvements, and fancy herself all perfection, and before they arrive at an age when mothers are justified in bringing them out, they acquire habits and ideas which render it necessary that they should be kept at home. Then the boys are very apt to be equally spoilt by the indulgence of mamma, and the tranquil compliance of father; Bob must have a superfine blue coat at forty dollars—a dandy neckcloth, chains and seals, because it is the fashion, forsooth; and money in his pocket to visit the third tier of boxes in our theatre, to eat oysters and ice cream, smoke segars and drink brandy and water. These ruinous indulgencies are seen by the sisters, and they must come in for a share of the extravagancies. Bob has this, and I must have that. Example is every thing; if it be a pernicious one, it cannot fail to produce a pernicious effect. "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

If parents will only have firmness to resist the pressing and dangerous solicitations of their children; if they adopt a correct and wholesome system, and enforce it with unyielding strictness, in a very short time the good effects would be discernable—and, what at first children violently and obstinately opposed, they will at length cheerfully submit to, and all will go on smooth and happy. Marriages, therefore, are rare, because the parties fear each other. A young man of moderate expectations fears the extravagance of a wife; and a young woman fears that her husband wo'd abridge her customary indulgencies, and thus fears operate and keep them apart. It cannot be necessary to bring up daughters extravagantly because the father is rich—if it is justified on the score of fitness and propriety of habits and custom, how keenly must they feel a reverse of fortune? People sometimes meet with sad reverses; I was told that several bankruptcies occurred lately among merchants who had foolishly lived like nabobs—and I also heard, that their wives and daughters behaved well on the occasion, and resigned their luxuries and extravagancies without a sigh. This is creditable to them certainly—but had they not been led into these extravagancies, may be these reverses would never have happened—avoid all causes of unhappiness. The other day I saw a pretty young lady purchase a white satin redicule with clasps, for $6, and a few minutes after she went into Mrs. Popletons—now thinks I, she feels a little faint with walking, and intends eating a tart or a jumble, and drinking a glass of lemonade or some such reasonable refreshments—but she purchased a huge piece of heavy pound cake, and after demolishing a good half, she thrust the remainder in her redicule, and in a few minutes, the white satin became quite affected by the grease of the cake, and was, of course, useless—there is six dollars and a half at once gone, which would have supported 12 poor families one day. The gentlemen however set bad examples, and the ladies unfortunately imitate them.

This coat cost me 45 dollars, said a fashionable friend to me—feel the cloth, 18 dollars per yard. What extravagance! what a waste of money! No wonder merchants break—no wonder people marry so seldom. If a different system is not adopted, I shall begin to fear that the happiness of the community, its prosperity and increase will be seriously affected. Dandy bachelors and antiquated belles, will usurp the places which should be occupied by young married couples—and smiling infants—and Hymen's torch, which should burn bright & clear, will be dimmed by the mildews of fashionable extravagance and ruinous bankruptcy. HOWARD.

The following beautiful extracts are from the Baltimore Morning Chronicle. The first is introductory to a communication relative to a meeting of the Baltimore Bible Society. The second is introductory to a statement of the approbatory manner in which general Jackson was received, on his late arrival at Nashville, Tennessee; and predicated upon the late contest between the civil and the military departments at Washington.

Seldom does the pen of Mr. Allen touch a subject that it does not ornament; and seldom does it impart a shade that does not breathe with patriotism and benevolence.

[Ithaca Journal.

FIRST.

"If there is one thing above all others that ought to arrest the attention of Christians, it is that the chariot of the Prince of Peace is still riding forth conquering and to conquer; it is that all the Heathen deities are now prostrating themselves in homage to his feet; it is that the silver trumpet of salvation is blown amidst the regions of darkness and the shadows of death; it is that the circuit of Christianity will shortly be bounded only by the march of the sun; it is that all nations, kindreds, tongues and languages, will soon be as familiar to the name of the Prince of Peace as they are to the overarching beams of day. The time predicted by Prophets is rapidly advancing; the dawn begins to sparkle, when the lion and the lamb shall lie down together, and a little child shall lead them."

SECOND.

"We have already had occasion to remark that Americans in their march to national greatness, have no obstacle to fear but from themselves. There is not on earth a more interesting spectacle than to behold a mighty nation acknowledging no other sovereign than the Sovereign of the universe, and governed by laws of its own making It is a piece of moral maschinery more curious, more interesting than the most skillful combination of mechanical powers can possibly be. To behold the farmer quitting his hoe and spade: the manufacturer his loom; the artist quitting his anvil; the merchant his counting house; the lawyer his desk; and repairing to Washington where they assume for a season the characters of legislators: where in a state of exile from their wives and families, they perform that awful and honorable trust, and then resort to their several occupations again, is indeed such a phenomenon as the world, with the exception of the western continent, does not witness; it exhibits such a plain and practical satire on titles, on beriditary legislation, on royalty, that an American must be insensible indeed to the high prerogatives that he enjoys, if he does not value them as he ought. These farmers, mechanics, merchants, lawyers, artists, declare war, or conclude treaties of peace; they send forth the eagle that bears our thunders and lightnings, or the dove of mercy with the branch of olive in her beak. Our generals, our naval commanders, with all their respective forces, acknowledge no superior on earth to these men thus assembled in the character of legislators; to these they bow in homage, because the stern and imperial voice of the country speaks to them through these organs. A frenchman who, during the reign of Bonaparte, had visited our shores and attended the debates at Washington, inquired where was the army which was to enforce at the point of the bayonet, the decrees of our government? he had only been accustomed to such involuntary homage; he was ignorant of that moral force—that generally pervading sentiment—that energy of opinion that makes or unmakes at once; that controles with a strength beyond all the force of armies, or of navies. These are the blessings guarranteed and secured to us by our constitution; they are not theoretical visions: lights that sparkle lovely to the eyes and explode at the touch of experiment; they are blessings reduced to a practical shape, and enjoyed by every American from his cradle to his grave; from the first moment that he breathes the vital air, until the period arrives when his disembodied spirit wings its way to eternity. To preserve these priviliges in all their integrity, and to hand them down from generation to generation, should be the first and the last wish of every patriot."

ALEXANDRIA:
SATURDAY JUNE 12, 1819.

The Yellow Stone expedition, under command of col. Atkinson, of the 6th regiment, arrived at Cincinnati, on the 15th of last month, and sailed the same evening towards their destination. The regiment consisted of 600 men, and made a fine appearance on their approach to Cincinnati.

KENTUCKY BANKS.

A deputation from the Bank of Kentucky, the branch banks of the United States at Lexington and Louisville, the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Lexington, and the Commercial Bank of Louisville, met at Frankfort on the 17th ultimo; and taking into consideration the distressed state of the country, they resolved to render all the aid in their power to individuals, by loans or otherwise, to avert the public pressure; they considered that the circulating medium might be increased and considerable relief afforded to the people, without a suspension of specie payments, by a good understanding and co-operation among the banks there represented; and the local portion of those banks declared, that they would continue to pay their notes in gold & silver, it being unnecessary for the branches of the United States Bank to make any such declaration. These resolutions were immediately ratified by the Bank of Kentucky, and no doubt by the others.

We are peculiarly gratified at the favorable aspect which these proceedings have given to the pecuniary affairs of Kentucky. Previous indications had excited alarm among the merchants of this city, who are deeply interested in the western trade, and in the continuance of specie payments in that quarter. They could not, nor can we perceive any lasting benefit that could have resulted, even to the west, from a substitution of mere paper for gold and silver, from a violation of good faith on the part of the banks and the western merchants, or from universal bankruptcy among them; for a suspension of metallic payments would be neither more nor less than failure and insolvency. The great respectability of the directors, who composed the convention at Frankfort, gives assurance that their institutions will adhere to the judicious and correct course which they have prescribed.

The small pox is making extensive ravages in the district of Maine. A letter from Belfast, under date of May 25th, after stating the manner of its introduction, into that town says, "The public alarm produced an immediate and great pressure for innoculation for the Kine Pox, and some genuine Kine Pox matter was immediately obtained from Dr. Hardy, of Bucksport. This matter from the Lancets of some of our Physicians has produced a vast many cases of the genuine Kine Pox, while unfortunately, and in a manner yet inexplicable the same matter from the lancets of some other of our physicians has produced the Small Pox. From the Small Pox matter thus produced, extensive innoculations by Physicians and others have been made.—From this source the Small Pox has broken out in all directions from this place—And the subscribers know not the limits, as persons innoculated with the smallpox in this manner and from this source, have gone from this place in all directions."

On Tuesday last, a vessel arrived at Boston, from Belfast, having on board a seaman that had the small pox. Information was immediately given to the proper authority and the vessel was ordered to the quarantine ground.

The term of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, which was to have been held in Castine on the 3d inst. has been, in consequence of the small pox, adjourned to the second Monday of September.

PERSIAN, OR CASAMIRE SHEEP.

Five hundred and seventy-eight of the animals producing the Cashmere wool, or, Goats of the Thibet, have safely reached the port of Marseilles. The circumstance was announced at Paris on the 21st of April, by a telegraphic dispatch. The enterprise for procuring this breed, which was planned by M. Ternaur, has been attended with great difficulty, but is at length crowned with success It is calculated that these animals will thrive in France as well as in their native land. They bear some resemblance to the common goat, but are without the smell.

A letter from Port-au-Prince, dated the 15th ult. mentions that the President has made an attempt to raise the value of the money of the country to par, but had not as yet succeeded. The same letter says, that the markets were stocked with American produce, except lumber, which latter article had fallen in price on account of two cargoes, but would get up again Coffee was declining; Flour was 11 dols. Pork 24, Beef 16 Butter 20 cents per lb. Coffee 33 sous. Sugar 7 dols. half. cwt.

N. York Gazette.

A letter from Bremen of the 8th April, notices, that the first steam boat ever employed on the Weser to carry goods, had just started, and her undoubted success would cause more to follow. This, with the material difference of transit duties, must give an essential advantage in the supply of Upper Germany, who have to depend on the navigation of the Rhine, a river whose impetuous velocity does not admit of steam boat navigation.

The following valuable receipt has been kindly communicatod by a friend, who has frequently witnessed its efficacy, and believes it to have saved the lives of no less than three persons in this city. We consider him as having done a great service to the community by enabling us to publish it.

The ulcer to be washed with a mop, or used as a gargle for the throat, as often as patient can bear it. The application may be assuaged by a wash of sage tea, or honey, immediately after the gargle is applied. One or two spoonfuls of flour of sulphur may be taken night or morning.—A sweetened decoction of the woods may be taken at the same time; an invigorating diet may be used. [Amer. Farmer.

CURE FOR SUPERSTITION.

Miners are known to be a superstitious race. This superstition, however, is sometimes made a pretext for idleness. There is a receipt for curing this species of disorder In some extensive mines in Wales, the men frequently saw the Devil, and when once he had been seen, the men would work no more that day. This evil became serious, for old Belzebub repeated his visits so often as if he had a design to injure the proprietor. That gentleman at last called his men together, and told them it was very certain that the Devil never appeared to any body who had not deserved to be so terrified, and that he was determined to keep no rogues about him, he was resolved to discharge the first man that saw the Devil again. The remedy was as efficient, as if he had turned a stream of holy water into the mines.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole; it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirious of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

100 Dollars Reward.

IS known to have been kidnapped from a field near Germantown, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, on the 30th ult. whilst at work alone, a Free Black Man, named HENRY HUDSON, aged between 21 and 22 years, of the height of five feet five inches, very black complexion and dark eyes, has a scar under his left arm, between the wrist and elbow, occasioned by the cut of an axe.

He is by occupation a farmer, a native of Kent county, in the state of Delaware, had on a blue cloth roundabout jacket, old black silk vest, corded velvet pantaloons, and a wool hat.

He is a very civil, inoffensive man, with rather a down look. There is reason to suppose that he was decoyed into a carriage, and conveyed southward.

Any information respecting him will be thankfully received. Keepers of turnpike gates, toll bridges, and taverns, are particularly requested to give such information as may be in their power.

The above reward will be cheerfully paid on conviction of the perpetrators of this flagrant outrage upon the rights of a freeborn citizen of the United States.

Exchange & Broker's Office,

Georgetown, District of Columbia.

ROMULUS RIGGS.

AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18

Curvature of the Spine.

DR. HAMILTON,
No. 47, North Gay street, Baltimore,

HAVING turned much of his attention during a long practice to the diseases of the Spine, begs leave to tender his services for the cure or relief of that afflicting malady. The approach of this disease is easily detected by an attentive observer. It makes its appearance generally in children between the second and sixth year; a protuberance of one or more of the small bones composing the spine becomes evident, loss of appetite, irregularity of the bowels, and emaciation soon follow, together with much disinclination to walk—and unless immediate aid is obtained, death or incurable decripitude through life are the certain consequences.

Doctor Hamilton has the satisfaction of knowing that his treatment of this disease, and application of the necessary apparatus, which is simplified at the same time, that it is materially improved, have received the unqualified approbation of many of the most eminent of his medical brethren in Baltimore. Spring corsets, upon a new principle, can be applied for the use of young ladies evincing a tendency to this disease, which, while they afford the most effectual support for either side, may be worn without observation. Satisfactory references might be given to parents whose children have profited by this improved mode of treatment, did not delicacy forbid the publication: they may be easily obtained if desired, by a private interview.
